

What Happens When You Die?

1. You see family - You move towards them if you want to reincarnate. You decline the "family" invitation and go towards the light. Be prepared for darkness to engulf you but this is temporary, and you hold on to your determination and desire to "return home to God." The light will emerge fairly soon.
2. The Soul leaves the body, and moves towards Source. This is when you have your "life review" without judgement, you have so much awareness at this point - that you are the only judge!
3. The Desire Body and ego form an "etheric egg" which forms into the shape of the body, yet does NOT contain the soul. It has no ability to express since the Emotional Body and the Mental Body have dissolved along with the decaying physical body. This "egg" can sometimes be seen floating above the body for about three days after death, while the life review goes on. Those who have had near death experiences will often report after they come back to life that they have heard or seen action around their body during their "declared death."
